Figure 1. The effect of the number of trials on the number of correct responses. The number of correct responses was plotted against the number of trials for each condition. The number of correct responses increased with the number of trials for all conditions. The number of correct responses was highest for the condition with the highest number of trials (10 trials) and lowest for the condition with the lowest number of trials (2 trials).

Figure 1 displays a 4x4 grid of 16 small grayscale images. Each small image is a 16x16 pixel square. The patterns of black and white pixels in these images represent different levels of a binary variable, likely related to the 'x' variable in the text. The patterns are arranged in a grid, with each small image being a 16x16 pixel square. The patterns vary in density and distribution of black pixels, representing different levels of a binary variable.
